BEING THANKFUL

One lesson that hits home repeatedly is brought to us in a very forceful way in 1 Thessalonians 5:18: "In everything give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." Whatever happens in our lives, we can find reason to be thankful to God.

An English minister had spoken to a congregation in Boston, and upon leaving the building he asked a man the directions to his hotel. The man replied, "Why, you are the minister I just heard. I know your voice. I am blind, but I can show you the way." The minister protested, but the man begged him to let him help. "I live alone. I can find my way alone in the streets without help. I thank God for my blindness, because it gives me so much time for quiet meditation. There will be time enough in heaven for me to see everything." That minister walked away a wiser man, thankful for the lesson taught by the loving, Christian man he had just met.
